Duce's Attackers To Be Executed

ROME, Nov. 5 (By U. P.).—The Cabinet today approved the text of a bill to provide the death penalty for attempts to assassinate the King, regent, Queen, crown prince or the Premier, and for other specified crimes.

Prison sentences of from fifteen to thirty years were provided for

B. Mussolini

King Victor Emmanuel

the organizers of such attempts.
Italians living abroad who spread false, exaggerated or misleading tion of Italy, or such as would hurt try, would be liable to from five to fifteen years' imprisonment.

BASKETBALL'S HERE

ketball reported when Chief Mul-

Carousing N. Y. Co-eds Play Pirates on Liner

TOKIO, Nov. 5 (By U. P.).—A small minority of American students aboard the University Travel Association's floating university, S.S. Ryndam, literally and figuratively hoisted the Jolly Roger above their cruising class room, it was revealed today, when upward of 300 students came ashore for their first day in Japan.

Some of the students slid down hawesers to get ashore last night when they were refused shore leave.

And there has been a bit of drinking, too, since the students arrived in Japan, just like that which caused tall tales of undergraduate doings to emanate from many campuses in the United States.

The drinking caused considerable unfavorable comment here, particularly because men students and co-eds visited the public bar in the Imperial Hotel, a place where women seldom are seen. This exhibition of American equality between the sexes shocked Japanese.

G. W. Lowack, secretary of Phelps Brothers & Co., steamship agents of New York, in charge of the cruise, said today that so far as he knew everything was "going very nicely" with the floating university.

The floating university sailed from New York September 8 for an eight months' tour of the world in a westerly direction. There were approximately 450 students, men and women, aboard, and 40 instructors.

PROBE "DIPLOMA MILL," SELLING $500 DEGREES

GARY, IND., Nov. 5 (By U. P.).
—"Ready-made" law degrees at $500 each are alleged to have been issued by a "diploma mill" under investigation here.

James Pace is said to be the head of the college and faces prosecution for obtaining money under false pretenses. Charges also are to be brought against several persons said to have "graduated" from the college.

INVENTOR-PREACHER DIES

The Rev. John Dey, inventor and former minister, is dead at his home in Summit, N. J., at the age of 84. He died of pneumonia after a two weeks' illness. He was once rector of St. George's Cathedral, Edinburgh, Scotland. One of his important inventions was a time-recording clock, such as is used in industrial plants and factories.
With two brothers he founded Dey Brothers & Co., a large Rochester, N. Y., department store.

Blow Hurt Memory, Worker Declares, Wins $20,000

Robert Smith, 42, of 8767 116th St., Richmond Hill, Queens, was awarded a verdict of $20,000 today by a jury in Long Island City, in a damage suit for an injury which may have impaired his memory.

Smith, a stonemason, was injured working on an apartment building. He was hit on the head by a trowel dropped from the roof.

Dr. Smith Eli Jelliffe, who testified as alienist in the Thaw and Loeb-Leopold trials, said the blow might lead to a form of epilepsy, and that Smith suffered from occasional lapses of memory.

THE COUNTRY BEYOND (5)

Posed by Ralph Graves, Olive Borden and a Splendid Cast

By James Oliver Curwood

Martha steals from the cabin shortly before McKay arrives, at dawn. Roger, intent upon proceeding with the girl to Father John's and, expecting Valencia will be on the alert, hoots softly.
The girl fails to appear, and Roger opens the cabin door. Suddenly he halts, horror stricken.

There on the floor lies the body of Joe Leseur. By the dead man's side is an ax handle. "He tried to hurt Valencia," thinks Roger, "and in defense she killed him." Fearing that his beloved will be imprisoned, Roger plans swiftly. "I'll take the blame for this and Valencia will go free." McKay takes Cassidy's revolver and fires two shots into the body of the dead man.

Cassidy manages to free himself from the toils in which McKay has enmeshed him and rides to the hotel. He is amazed to be confronted by the fugitive, who, stepping up to him, proffers the officer's revolver, saying: "I have just killed Joe Leseur. Here is your gun, with which I shot him when he attacked me in his cabin." Cassidy immediately proceeds to Leseur's cabin to verify the confession.

Every evidence bears out McKay's "confession," and Cassidy starts with his prisoner back to civilization. Valencia, returning to the cabin, finds Joe dead, and runs to the hotel, where Harland's sister, upon his advice, refuses to tell the girl the truth concerning Leseur's murder and McKay's arrest, but tells the heartbroken Valencia that Roger has gone away with an "Indian squaw wife." (Concluded tomorrow.)
